

Char Miller's Centennial Road Tour

Dr. Char Miller

The Forest Service will celebrate its centennial in 2005 and launch its New Century of Service to the American people and the extraordinary landscape under its management. But what of its past century of service? What is the relationship between the Forest Service's land management practices then and now? And how might a discussion of its historical challenges help us better understand its contemporary dilemmas and future prospects?

Dr. Char Miller—author, professor, and Forest Service history expert—will deliver 30 lectures throughout the country about the environmental and political history that developed and shaped the Forest Service. The talks illustrate the agency's past and speak directly to the present. Using photographs, cartoons, and other illustrative material, he weaves an exciting tale about the Forest Service's contributions to the Nation and the controversies that swirl around its actions.

Upcoming PNW Lectures

Ashland, Oregon

Contact: Jeffrey Lalande, (541) 858-2302

Sponsors: Rogue River-Siskiyou NF and Southern Oregon University's School of Sciences

April 13, 2005; 7:00 p.m.

Southern Oregon University, Stevenson Union Building

La Grande, Oregon

Contact: Heidi Bigler Cole, (541) 962-6553

Sponsors: PNW Research Station and Wallowa-Whitman and Umatilla NFs

April 18, 2005; 7:00 p.m.

Eastern Oregon University, Huber Auditorium

Bend, Oregon

Contact: Virginia Gibbons, (541) 416-6647

Sponsors: Deschutes and Ochoco NFs and the High Desert Museum

June 4, 2005; Time TBA

High Desert Museum