The Moose Post-Fire Project interdisciplinary team would like to acknowledge the valuable contributions of the many people from the Flathead National Forest and the USDA Forest Service Northern Region Office who helped guide and assist in the development of this project. We apologize for any names of people whose name may not appear on this list. We are indebted to all who helped us with our endeavors.

Terry Chute and Rob Carlin for countless hours providing guidance, support, oversight, editing, encouragement, and expertise while not losing their sense of humor. Employees from the Tally Lake Ranger District for research into literature citations and developing a process that saved our interdisciplinary team hours of work. Jane Kollmeyer, Tally Lake district ranger, for freely providing us access to her employees for much needed help. Robert Nowak, Jeff Helland, and the rest of the ground pounders for unit ground-truthing. Susan Kemper for racing down from Spotted Bear with pie charts (minus the pie) for the vegetation section of the FEIS. Allen Rowley and Betsy Evans for designing the Internet Web version of the FEIS. Vicki Bodfish for the beautiful document cover. Dan Schraeder and Rita Allison for printing the document for internal review and then for publication. The computer shop in the supervisor's office and Three Forks Zone employees Jim Pudelka, Dave Yarger, and Gail Stanley for support when we lost documents, ran out of space, or had computer breakdowns or malfunctions. Cathy Calloway, who provided comments on the draft EIS and then jumped to the plate when we needed last minute help for document input. Regional office employees and Flathead staff members and employees who read the FEIS and provided valuable comments and suggestions. Jim Reuter, world's fastest typist and his sidekick, Keith VanBroeke, for helping input 150+ letters into our content analysis document. Ed Cumming for stuffing all those letters into all those envelopes and getting mailings out in rapid time. And to all of you who put aside what you were doing at a moment's time to help us stay on track so we could complete this document.
