- 0062-005 - No vegetation manipulation needs to occur. The forests have thus far managed quite well over thousands of years, except where fires threaten private homes or businesses.
- 0069-006 Prescribed burns may be appropriate near populated areas to reduce the danger of larger uncontrolled wildfires. Other methods of vegetation manipulation are unnecessary. This land did fine before people came along to manage it.
- 0147-002 We, as Alaskans, should set an example of concern and conservation for others to follow. This state has been called "The Last Frontier," but if current logging practices continue, even that will be last. Please keep this in mind as you decide the fate this vital habitat. Thank you for your time.
- 0391-002 Allow harvesting of already down timber for fuel or lumber.
- 0837-022 Multiple use requires a healthy vegetative cover in order to meet the needs of the greatest number of users.
- 0837-025 The vegetation management strategy proposed should consider and discuss the impacts on adjacent forest properties. - The CNFP should detail the future desired condition of the vegetative cover within the CNF and how the USFS expects to achieve this condition.
