Sharing Trails...

Many winter travel routes are open to snowmobilers as well as cross-country skiers, snowshoers, and dog sledgers. When sharing routes, consideration for others is necessary for the maximum enjoyment and safety of all users.

Remember:

- Be sensitive to the needs of animals.
Avoid close contact, wait for them to move or stop and go around them.
- Help animals conserve their food supply.
Avoid damaging brush, trees and grass.
- Respect wildlife's privacy.
Stay on established routes or trails.
