Sharing Trails...
 Many winter travel routes are open to snowmobiles as well as cross-country skiers, snowshoers, and dog sledgers. When sharing routes, consideration for others is necessary for the maximum enjoyment and safety of all users.

Remember:

- Be sensitive to the needs of animals. Avoid close contact, wait for them to move or stop and go around them.
- Help animals conserve their food supply. Avoid damaging brush, trees and grass.
- Respect wildlife's privacy. Stay on established routes or trails.
