

Goals of the Catalina-Rincon FireScope

Restore ecosystem processes and create resilient ecosystems

Continue existing program of fire management activities

Develop basis for restoring sustainable, more natural fire regimes across landscape and mountain-range scales

Improve management techniques and incorporate lessons learned

Apply innovative and scientific approaches

Capitalize on mosaics left by Bullock and Aspen fires

Use non-traditional tools and new technologies that have succeeded elsewhere

Conduct research and monitoring to answer key questions

Keep people integrated in all activities

Develop a shared vision through engaging collaborators and the public

Reduce undesirable effects of catastrophic wildfire on people and communities

Share our experiences with others

The Coronado National Forest's FireScope program brings partners together to manage fire on large landscapes across southeastern Arizona.

March 2009