UINTA-WASATCH-CACHE NATIONAL FOREST RELEASE

MOTOR VEHICLE USE MAPS

SALT LAKE CITY, UTAH, October 10, 2008 – The Uinta-Wasatch-Cache National Forest released the Motor Vehicle Use Map (MVUM) for the Ogden Ranger District today. MVUM maps show where and what type(s) of motor vehicle use is allowed on National Forest System lands. These maps are in compliance with the November 2005 US Department of Agriculture Final Rule for Motorized Vehicle Recreation on National Forests and Grasslands.

Each National Forest is required to identify and designate roads, trails and areas that are open to motor vehicle use. All National Forests are required to publish MVUM's and make them available to the public. These maps are a legal documentation that will be used to enforce travel rules on National Forest System lands. If a road or trail does not appear on the map it means that it is not open to public use. The MVUM's are black and white and do not provide detailed recreation information. The maps are available for free and they will be re-issued annually to include updates and reflect new travel management decisions that are made during the year.

“More and more Americans are enjoying access and recreational opportunities on national forests and every user has the responsibility to make sure he or she knows where their motorized vehicles are allowed,” said Brian Ferebee, Uinta-Wasatch-Cache National Forest Supervisor. Motor Vehicle Use Maps for the Uinta-Wasatch-Cache National Forest have been completed for the followings areas and are posted on the forest website at: <http://www.fs.fed.us/r4/uwc/maps/> Maps can also be picked up at any Uinta-Wasatch-Cache National Forest Office.
