Welcome to the DMSM Forum

Signing up for the Forum

The DMSM Forum is intended to provide a place where DMSM stakeholders can exchange ideas and information, and where the DMSM management team can post important updates. The Forum is a means for DMSM stakeholders to build community, share ideas, and make DMSM a better product. Please feel free to post any findings or suggestions you may have.

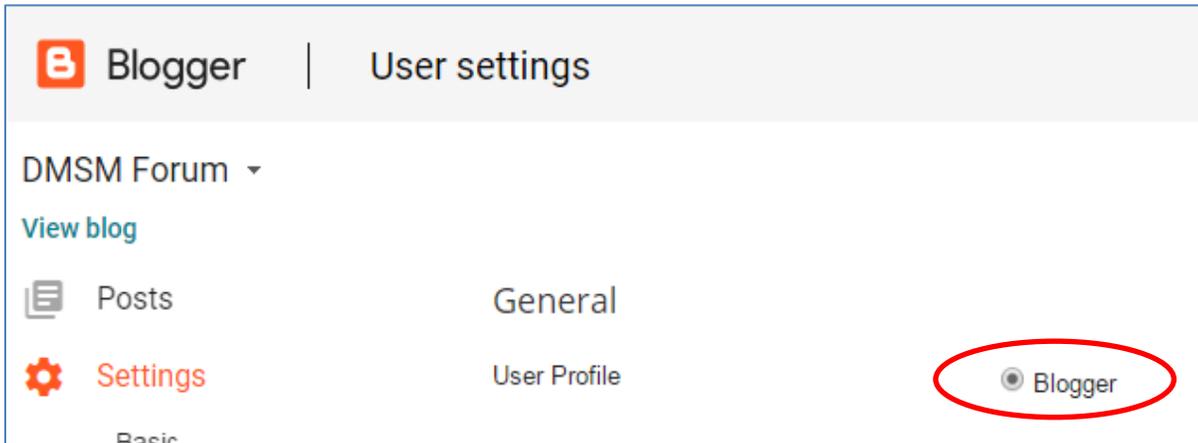

Use a Google/Gmail Account

- To sign up for the DMSM Forum you will need a Google/Gmail account. One can be created here: <https://www.google.com/gmail/about/#>
- The process for joining the Forum:
 - Send a message to william.r.frament@usda.gov and kyle.neeley@usda.gov with your Gmail address in the body of the message.
 - You will receive an invitation to join the DMSM forum at the Gmail address you sent. (You can set your Gmail account to automatically forward messages to another email address if desired).
 - Follow the instructions in the message to login to the forum for the first time.
 - When you login to the DMSM Forum you can either View blog (the Forum) or create a New post. (NOTE: The DMSM Forum is hosted on Blogger.com where you will often find the Forum referred to as a blog).

Posting to The Forum Using Email

You can post to the DMSM Forum directly from email without having to log in to the Forum. And you can use any email account for this purpose, it does not have to be the Gmail account used to sign up for the Forum. To set that up, click Email under Settings and enter your own 'Secret Words'. Use this address to post text and images (up to 10MB in size) directly to the Forum. In the example below the email address to send posts to is `cdietrichfs.dmsm@blogspot.com`. The email subject will be used as the post title. Please follow this naming convention in the subject: M/D/YY Title of Post.
